CONNECTICUT CONVENTION. Town Hall, Rockford, Conn., was ablaze with National colors, and portraits, mottoes and military insignia were combined in the elaborate decorations arranged by Burpee Corps, 11.

When the gavel of Department President Hammond fell, and after the preliminary exercises, President Anna E. Lewis, of Burpee Corps, gave a cordial welcome to 11th annual Convention, officers and delegates, to which Department Treasurer Charlotte E. Wright, of New Haven, made fitting response.

The Department President in her address gave an encouraging resume of the work for the year, and this was supported by the reports of all the officers. Relief, in cash, extended, Richard Allen Post, 65, Elyria-Com., Rives $1,406.25; other than cash, $1,194.79; turned over to Posts, $483.54; Department relief, $145.65; National Relief Corps Home, $145; total, $3,375.23. Many Corps sent hospital comforts to the Soldiers' Home.

> After the reports had been received and acted upon, the following officers were chosen, and later installed: Dep't Pres., Charlotte E. Wright, New Haven, unanimous choice; S. Admirable responses on behalf of the Department was made by our spirited TRIBUNE correspondent, Jennie F. W. Smith, abounding in SALUTING THE FLAG.

After a stirring male quartet the children all. Post, Winnepeg, Can., to send a communication from the public schools were brought to the Our Corps is flourishing, and the meetings the committee. which the W.R.C. is trying to introduce into dental exercises included the singing of the "Red, White, and Blue" by a young girl dressed in the National colors.

Hon, Charles Phelps followed with an address on Our Flag, in which he told of the birth of the flag, and its many changes between 1774 and 1818. The Colonies at first wishing to show allegiance to the Crown Adj't, A. J. Thompson; S. M., W. H. Carpenter; adopted royal colors, but it was soon changed to meet the spirit of freedom and Union which sprang up among the sister States. Unlike other flags ours did not have its origin in any religious or mythological emblem, but it had as inspiring effect as those flags which legend tells us were of miraculous origin. In all ages men have looked for signs from heaven for inspiration and encouragement for their efforts. Napoleon, when his army stood in the shadow to remember that they fought with the eyes of the ages looking down upon them; and his soldiers fought with an energy and enthusiasm which has never been paralleled in history. Though we may not be able to cause a sign to appear upon the vault of heaven, as did Constantine, or be presented with a banner by an angel, as was King Clovis, our flag has the spirit of Union and of liberty, taken from the hands of the heroes of Bunker Hill, of Valley Forge, of Appomattox, of Sheridan's ride, and Sherman's march to the sea.

There were appropriate songs and recitations, after which Past Department President Harriet Durfee stepped forward, and in the name of the Department conferred upon her the badge of a Past President, together with a collection of souvenir spoons, one from each Corps in the Department Commander Selah G. Blakeman, the next speaker, said he brought the greetings of nearly 7,000 Grand Army men in his Department, and paid high tribute to woman's work in war and peace. He urged the Relief Corps was served, at which about 200 people were to use their influence in recruiting for the Sons of Veterans.

Dr. Brauson, of the New Hampshire Soldiers' Home, was among the speakers. He told of excellent assistance rendered by the Relief Corps in the work of caring for New Hampshire veterans. National Chaplain Harriet J. Bodge gave encouraging statistics of State and National work, and told of the National Home, Madison, O.,

Judge Burleigh was heart and soul in his wife's chosen work, and it was the desire of his heart to see her at the head of the Department W.R.C. He lived to see his desire gratified, and was justly proud of her high distinction.

DEPARTMENT OF MINNESOTA. DEAR TRIBUNE: We have here in Minnesota a strange and perhaps unparalleled condition of affairs. Our new Department President is a resident of a city where there is no Relief Corps, and has been none for years. Department President Loduska J. Taylor was President of a thriving Corps in Le Sueur, some 50 miles from this city, when the Post went to pieces and its auxiliary had to disband. She, however, placed her membership in Geoege N. Morgan Corps, this city. Though there is no Comrade Taylor, her husband not having been a soldier, she was too loyal to the Order to let a little matter of 50 miles stand between her and membership. When she visited her Corps, after her election, they received her in a manner to prove to her their appreciation of her fidelity to the cause. Each of the 10 Posts and nine Corps in the city were represented at the meeting held to greet her, and the greeting was enthusiastic and sincere. Her right arm must have ached from the handshaking. An excellent program was introduced in a happy speech by President Bertha M. Allen, of Morgan Corps, and included an able and patriotic address by Commander we are happy to inform them we are here! I am just in receipt of the resignation of Department Corresponding Secretary, accompanied by the correspondence she has received since last June, which accounts for the delay in publishing the articles sent by the various Corps. I have arranged the material on hand, which I inclose for publication.

The Corresponding Secretary of Silas A Strickland Corps, 21, Hot Springs, reports a good financial condition, and compliments their chief officer, who was re-elected; which shows that loyalty is one of their characteristics. They have occasionally done a kind act for those to whom they are not bound by W.R.C. obligations. By so doing they have gained the hearts of the people and many additions to their Order. It is well to have charity begin at home, but not advisable to let it end there. The Corresponding Secretary of Col. Ellsworth W.R.C., 50, says they bave no destitute soldiers among them; have sent $10 to the Cottage Fund, supplies to Soldiers' Home valued at $12. and $2 to the Army Nurses' Home. This is a small Corps and deserves praise.

Kilpatrick W.R.C., 2, celebrated their removal into Veterans' Hall by an entertainment. The principal features were addresses by Chaplain Barry, of the United States Army, and Col. Carpenter, of S. of V., and music. Refreshments were served. The next social was by S. of V. lately organized; a fine program followed by refreshments. The dessert was served by Revs. Hewhouse, Burt, and Mc-Gregory in the shape of toasts done to a turn.

We have no desire to force any growth, but leave our merits to command the recognition Posts in this Department are all regularly organized memorial societies. The cardinal principles are to perpetuate the G.A.R. through our Posts, following entirely in their path to with us our sons, but not admitting them as comrades into our Posts, but having them establish distinct organizations, which shall be jealously nurtured by our direct supervision. The time for the G.A.R. to take action in the Sons of Veterans' cause is drawing near; it is not our desire to supersede the veteran corps, but we stand shoulder to shoulder to fill up the ranks when we are ordered into line.

In this city our Posts of Sons of Veterans are taking up the work of the G.A.R. We are constituted as a funeral detail, and officiate whenever occasion offers. We mark every soldier's grave on Memorial Day with our own flags and flowers. Our Post will order 2,000 flags for this year's work, and two large trucks will be used to carry our flowers. Our drum corps of 20 pieces are already signed in contract for Memorial Day. We shall be represented in the enlisted in July, 1861, at Bedford, and served through the entire war; last heard of at Springfield, The G.A.R. IOWA SOLDIERS' HOME.

How the State Has Provided for Its Dependent Veterans.

EDITOR NATIONAL TRIBUNE: Scarcely & day passes that I do not receive inquiries from all parts of the country respecting the cottages which the Legislature of 1892 authorized at the Iowa Soldiers' Home at this place.

These cottages, 10 in number, consist of two rooms and a small vestibule, the rooms being about 12 feet square, one answering for a sitting-room and the other for a bedroom. When the proposition was pending in the Legislature two years ago, the Woman's Relief Corps of the State made the pledge that if that body would provide the funds for erecting the 10 cottages, in an experimental effort, the Corps would prowide for their equipment,

This was done, with the exception of heating and lighting. Each cottage cost $500, not considering the expense of furnishing. Each one is provided with two incandescent electric lights; the heating is done with a hard-coal stove. They stand in a row on the west side of the main building of the Home, the row extending westward and fronting eastward, the object in this manner of location being to provide a street lined on both sides with cottages, in case the Legislature shall authorize the erection of any others.

The present heating plant of the Home is inadequate to the supply of steam heat to the cottages, and the lack of funds with which to extend it compelled the use of stoves paid for out of the general support fund of the Home. Eight of the 10 cottages only are yet occupied, though they were fully equipped and ready for use Feb. 8, 1893.

The occupants take their meals in one of the messrooms of the main building of the Home, but when any of them are sick and otherwise unable to go to their meals, the food is carried to them by a messenger. The Legislature provided that no old soldier and his wife should be eligible to a cottage who had not been married prior to 1872, and also required that the application should be approved by the Post of the Grand Army of the Repbulic nearest to their place of residence, at either a regular or special meeting of the l'ost. There is no provision in the cottage plan of the Iowa Soldiers' Home for the housing of our

The experiment of the cottage plan at the Iowa Soldiers' Home is so far too meager to enable the administration to give any decisive opinion regarding ultimate results, yet the indications are that it will be attended by ultimate success. There is no difficulty on the part of the men, as they have some conception of discipline, but their wives have never had any experience of military discipline, and, therefore, are not yet able to comprehend the necessity for certain rules, required for regulation where so many are gathered in one group,
